PLANES FLOCKING TO BRAINERD'S AIR MEET

SUPER TRIMOTORED NORTHWEST PLANE ARRIVES AT NOON

PLANE CARRIES MISS MINNESOTA, MISS FRANCES BUTCHER AND OTHER NOTABLES

UNIVERSAL AIR LINES PATH-FINDER CARRIES AVIATION SCHOOL HEADS AND OTHERS

Near the noon hour the huge super trimotored Northwest Airways passenger plane arrived at the Rosko airfield, carrying Miss Margaret Anderson, Miss Minnesota, Miss Frances Butcher of Brainerd winner of the second prize in the Brainerd Dispatch popularity contest and other notables. The plane was piloted by Walter Bullock, noted flier.

Miss Butcher's Impressions
Miss Butcher said the air voyage was one of, unalloyed delight. She was shown every courtesy at the Andrews hotel and by the Northwest Airways company. In company with the other passengers she boarded the plane and was wafled from Minneapolis to Brainerd in 55 minutes.

The air was cool, and she could see every phase of the landscape for miles around. A south wind was blowing and the pilot flew high. The motors drone was not unpleasant and one soon grew accustomed to it.

The ship rode smoothly and there was little vibration and practically no dipping. Minnesota has been well named the land of 10,000 lakes and a flight such as she made gives one the impression that there are so many lakes that a pilot may wonder where he can land his plane.

Miss Butcher was highly pleased with her experiences and wished to thank the Dispatch for giving her this wonderful opportunity to ride in the air and to enjoy the other many privileges experienced on her trip to Minneapolis and return. She is also grateful to her sister musicians of the Brainerd Ladies band.

Presentation to Miss Minnesota
Eddie Shurick, master of ceremonies and broadcaster of the Carnival of the Sky programs over K. S. T. P., St. Paul was a passenger. Mr. Shurick is the head of a group, known as the sky riders, who will, during August conduct 17 airport days over the state of Minnesota.

Mr. Shurick will present Miss Minnesota (Miss Margaret Anderson, of Brainerd) with a check for $300 prize awarded by the Minnesota State Fair. He will also present Miss St. Paul (Gussie Townsend) with $100 and Miss Canby (Miss Enga Munson of Canby, Minn.) with $50.

Complete Passenger List
The complete passenger list as carried by the Northwest Airways plane which arrived under escort of two army planes is Mrs. Jack Malone, wife of Jack Malone, airmail pilot of the Northwest Airways; Mrs. Charles (Speed) Holman, wife of the famous stunt flier; Mrs. Walter Bullock, wife of Walter Bullock pilot of plane; Miss Frances Butcher of Brainerd, winner of Brainerd Dispatch second prize in the popularity contest; Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Shurick; Miss Margaret Anderson (Miss Minnesota); Miss Gussie Townsend (St. Paul); Miss Enga Monson (Miss Canby); little Miss Mary Gertrude Malone daughter of Jack Malone, pilot; little Marilyn Bullock daughter of Walter Bullock.

Universal Airways Pathfinder
The Universal Airways Pathfinder Ford trimotored plane arrived about 10 a. m. She carried Joe P. Westover, pilot, of Minneapolis; Ben Fournier of the company's aviation school department; Chuck Luers of the same school; Frank Bory's co-pilot; Doc MacCadden.

Other Planes Arriving
R. J. Sergeant, flying an American Eagle Kinner motored plane, arrived this morning from Duluth and was accompanied by A. Pfander pilot.

E. W. Luhrs pilot, St. Paul, flew his Travelair to the meet and was accompanied by D. J. Johnson, mechanic.

Jimmy Zarth pilot accompanied by Herman Dreyer flew a Travelair from Fergus Falls for the owner Gust Imm.

Navy Planes Arrive
Early morning arrivals were the two navy planes A-8169 and A-8168, Lieutenant Frank E. Weld was accompanied by Ensign K. M. Krieger and Lieutenant M. D. Crawford by Aviation Machinist Mate Irving Sommermeier.

Army Planes
The two army planes from Minneapolis made the flight in 50 minutes, just 5 minutes less than the Northwest Airways. The planes are piloted by Captain Jack Malone, former Brainerd boy and Lieutenant Joe Ohrbeck. Both planes were seen in flights by the large crowd already assembled at the air field.

The planes are the latest type of Douglas army ships with Liberty motors.

More Planes Coming
Gust Imm of Fergus Falls is expected to send a second plane to the meet, arriving early this afternoon.

A. P. Nelson of the Northwest Airways spoke highly of the field and its runways. He said the field was admirably located and arranged.

J. O. Engel, manager of the Air Meet, expressed his appreciation of the fine manner in which the airmen of the Northwest are gathering at the field and believed that the Air Meet with its attendant publicity will benefit Brainerd materially.

U. S. As Peacemaker Between Russia and China

25TH BANK TO CLOSE IN FLORIDA IN LAST TWO WEEKS

Jacksonville, Fla., July 20.—(U.P.)—The 25th banking institution to close in Florida in the last two weeks closed today when the Bank of Pablo, at Jacksonville Beach, failed to open its doors. It was a small institution with a capital of $25,000, doing business mostly with week-end vacationists.

TO HITCH HIKE BY AIR CROSS COUNTRY

JOURNALIST, WIFE AND PET TURTLE LAND AT KANSAS CITY ON U. S. BUMMING TOUR

Kansas City, Mo., July 20.—(U.P.)—Air hitch-hiking may have its ups and downs, but there is something elevating about hopping about the country bumping rides off of skeptical pilots and more skeptical transport companies.

At least that was the verdict here today of Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Zacharoff, an Embury, New York journalist, and his Brooklyn school teacher wife, who hope to be the first persons to hitch-hike across the United States in the air.

So far the not-too-long-wed couple have shared about equally in the ups and downs. A week out of New York after walking through a part of hot and dusty Ohio, but most of the time up in the air for a ride, late yesterday landed the Zacharoffs, and their pet turtle "Lightning," at Fairfax field.

They immediately attracted attention. First Zacharoff wore shorts, and in Missouri and Kansas, each of which claim a part of this Singapore of the air, shorts are worn only under one trousers.

After the novelty of the shorts wore off, curious attention of airport attaches and visitors, turned shortly to "Lightning," who insisted on crawling out of his cardboard box and pecking about.

After the various merits of Lightning, whom his shy but attractive young mistress hopes will be the first turtle to hitch-hike by air across the United States, had been explained, Zacharoff began the business of hitch-hiking another ride to the coast.

This morning the idea of Mr. and Mrs. Zacharoff and Lightning riding to Los Angeles on the Dawn to Dusk plane of the Western Air Express had not impressed the management of the Air Transport Line.

To be plain, the manager explained that he did not believe the publicity promised, (mention of the airplane in a series of articles appearing in a New York daily,) would be worth the $350 fare.

more than 25,000 persons expected at the Air Meet opening the Rosko air field. The program includes two days, Saturday and Sunday, filled with racing, stunt flying, night flying, parachute jumps, balloon bursting contests, spot landings, formation flying, bucking Ford, ladies automobile driving contests, merry-go-round, Brainerd Ladies band music, kite flying contests, concessions, and other attractions.

Approximately 20 airplanes are expected, of which seven or more registered by 10 o'clock this morning.

Charles Speed Holman, operations manager of the Northwest Airways, will be an attraction and assures the success of the meet. He will do stunting for the huge crowd.

Captain George Babcock, parachute jumper, will make his delayed opening drops in which he dashes 400 feet with closed chute and then pulls the rip cord and floats to the ground. He has also gained wide reputation as a "spot landing" expert.

Microphone amplifiers will be used for addresses and announcements. Mayor Frank E. Little will welcome the visitors and his voice will be carried to all parts of the field.

First Flier Arriving
The first flier to arrive for the Air Meet was A. M. Sampson of Wahpeton, North Dakota, flying a new Waco 10, who arrived last evening and made the 130 miles flight in a beeline in one hour and fifty minutes. He faced a headwind. He spotted the Brainerd city water tower marker and saw the field clearly when miles away. Earl Anderson, mechanic, accompanied Sampson.

F. E. Eastlee flew his Travelair from Minneapolis to Brainerd in an hour and 35 minutes this morning, arriving at 9:55 a. m. At a height of 2400 feet he spotted marker and field when five miles distant. A passenger flew with Eastlee.

Plane Christening
Now at the Rosko air field is the plane of Henry and Peter Rosko of Brainerd which will be christened "Miss Brainerd" on Sunday. Another plane here whose fliers are vacationing in the Brainerd Lake Region is the Velle Monocoupe of Herbert Webb and E. Billings of Beacon Airways, Kansas City, Mo.

Weather Good for Flying
The weather is good for flying and visibility fair. The sky was solid overcast at 10 a. m., with a ceiling of about 2,000 feet and a south wind. Towards noon the sky commenced to brighten and wind to moderate.

Wonderful Panorama Spread Before Eyes of Air Traveler, Lakes Nestling in the Plains

DISPATCH FORCE GUESTS AT NOON IN HUGE PLANE

TAKEOFF ACCOMPLISHED IN RUN OF 400 FEET ON AIR FIELD

UNDER BULLOCK'S GUIDANCE PLANE LANDS WITHOUT A JAR

Brainerd nestled among lakes, farming territory and acres upon acres of green foliage when seen from the air becomes a paradise of beauty, a child's playground with thousands of miniature homes and buildings, industrial life reduced to but playhouse size and roads but threads, all placed in perfect union.

One gains the impression when soaring hundreds of feet above this city that without trouble buildings could be picked up and transported without the least effort. But there is also an expansiveness about the city which is gained when a tour above this city is made.

Members of the Brainerd Daily Dispatch force were guests at noon today of the Northwest Airways of a flight over the city in the 13 passenger plane operated on a daily run from Minneapolis to Chicago.

Under the skillful guidance of Lieutenant Walter Bullock, the huge trimotored Ford plane taxied into position for the takeoff. Mr. Bullock maneuvered the plane to the north section of the field and after a run of some 400 feet the plane started its ascent. There was nothing of alarming nature in the takeoff nor throughout the entire trip did one feel any sense of danger.

Circling west Mr. Bullock piloted the plane over acres of farm land, over ribbons of roads, over buildings, many of them so small as to make them barely legible. The Mississippi river, its water still and green was a rivulet, its banks blending into the green expanse everywhere. The city lay to the right. In spite of the extremely smallness of size of all the buildings, parks and plants one could distinguish them. A Minnesota and International electric train could be seen as it crept along the track. The court house stood out prominently in a border of green. The Iron Exchange building was a white block. The city water tower, the Northern Pacific shops, the Northwest paper mill, and Gregory park stood out prominently. Gilbert lake became a pond and Lum park but a jut in the Mississippi river.

The Northern Pacific railway shops impressed one air-minded passenger as being a logical place for the placing of a marker for the airport.

The ship in alighting glided along the smooth surface of the Rosko airport ground without a tremor.

Guests of the Northwest Airways on the trip were: Misses Myrtle Munson, Florence Minette, Opal Brown, Marie Hoffbauer, Little Miss Eileen Rosko, Mrs. John A. Hoffbauer, and Messrs. John A. Hoffbauer, Albert O. Anderson, Henry Rosko, Earl O'Brien, Alfred Noakes, Clarence Dahlen, and G. I. Badesaux.

The ship which is one of the passenger ships here for the dedication of the airport has a wing spread of 77 feet, 10 inches; a length of 49 feet,

10 inches; height 13 feet 8 inches; wheel tread, 18 feet 7 inches; a high speed of 140 miles an hour with a cruising speed of 115 miles an hour.

The normal cruising range of the plane is 500 miles with a maximum of 600 miles. It can rise to a height of 20,000 feet in the air. Its weight empty is 7800 lbs. and it can carry a useful load of 5450 pounds. It is equipped with three motors of 1230 horsepower complete.

Its gasoline capacity is 380 gallons. The total cost of the plane is $65,000. A. P. Nelson, salesmanager of the Northwest Airways said.

The Northwest Airways operates lines daily between the Twin Cities and Chicago. Starting August 1 the company will put on a special night air mail run between these two points, and will inaugurate a daily service line between Milwaukee and Green Bay.

Complete protection is afforded all passengers in riding in any of the Northwest Airways ships as insurance is covered on all who fly in them. Their record of a million miles without an accident is one that inspires confidence in flying with them.

He was moved yesterday to a private hospital where he was taken after being hit by a street car.

WIFE OBJECTS TO HUSBAND MAKING 'EASY MONEY'

Chicago, July 20.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Florence Hoffman, 20, would prefer to see her husband, Fred, 21, go to the penitentiary than have him "continue to make easy money."

The girl wife, accompanied by her 2 1/2 year-old daughter, was in court yesterday when Fred, George Neville, a former Sing convict, and Philip Romanowski were sentenced to from one year to life in Joliet prison.

"If he has to go," said Mrs. Hoffman, "he'll find me waiting when he gets out. I'd much rather see him in prison than having him keep on being a holdup man."

LAST MAN'S CLUB HAS 3 SURVIVORS

MEET IN ST. PAUL TODAY IN WHAT IS PERHAPS THEIR LAST FINAL STAND

By HECTOR PERIER (United Press Staff Correspondent)
St. Paul, July 20.—The Last Man's club crept past another mile-mark here today and the three survivors met perhaps in their final stand.

They were John S. Goff, 87 years old, St. Paul; Charles Lockwood, 87, Chamberlain, S. D., and Peter Hall, 92, Atwater, Minnesota.

Forty-three years ago these were but three of the 317 stalwart veterans of Company B, First Minnesota Volunteer Infantry, who banded together in a Stillwater tavern and put aside a bottle of rare burgundy wine from which one of their numbers shall drink a "Last Man's" toast.

It was obvious today to those who have seen the once lusty group dwindle to Goff, Chamberlain and Hall, that the lonely toast was but a little way removed.

Goff may yet be in fancy the courageous youth who carried his wounded commanding officer to safety at the battle of Peach Orchard, but to all others he was a nearly sightless, nearly deaf, shrunken little old man locked for the remainder of his life to the old man's chair.

Peter Hall, the eldest of the "Last Man's" tiny army, too was an old man who gave the impression of one who has lost interest in the chase as he sat silent with his head slightly bent as though listening to far-off music unheard by younger ears.

Lockwood alone in fair health but as Goff's beloved "Peter" said: "no man at 87 can expect to much of life."

Yet the meeting of the three was not without merriment and the brisk talk turned to good substantial matters rather than to such frail stuff as future years.

When he was asked whether the club would meet again next year, Goff, self appointed spokesman of the little group, piped out in true soldier fashion:

"Why, sure, Gedeemitt. Next year and the next. We're all good for a smart piece yet and as we told the boys in '86, 'We'll always meet as long as we all shall live.'"

'EVIL EYE' DEATHS BRING CHARGES

COUPLE FACE MURDER COMPLAINT FOR DROPPING AGED WOMAN INTO WELL

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 20.—(U.P.)—Still confident that they have averted a series of "evil eyes" deaths by killing the 75-year-old resident of a home for the aged, and dropping her body into a well, Eugene Burgess, 53, and his wife, today awaited with calmness while county authorities prepared to charge them formally with murder.

Paul Tedrow, prosecutor, said he could find no evidence to substantiate the charge in Burgess' confession that their victim, Mrs. Etta K. Fairchild, was believed responsible for hundreds of deaths through black art.

The couple and their daughter Eugenia, 17, and son, Burnett, 27, are being held in the county jail here. Burgess, in his confession, claimed the ill of his daughter were caused by Mrs. Fairchild, and he also believed she caused the death of his mother.

NATIONAL GUARD TO MOBILIZE FOR THEIR ENCAMPMENT

Lake City, Minn., July 20.—(U.P.)—The blare of bugles and the tramp of marching men will be heard again here Sunday when nearly 1,000 troops of the 266th infantry, Minnesota national guard, mobilize for their annual two-week encampment.

Guardsmen from Faribault, Moorhead, Sauk Center, Bemidji, St. Paul and other places, under the command of Col. F. G. Stutz, will adhere to a strictly military routine and their days will be crowded with drill, first aid instruction, target practice and machine gun fire.

Relatives and friends of the troopers will be invited to the camp on Sunday, July 28, for the annual field day.

EARLY, FAVORABLE REPLIES EXPECTED FROM DISPUTANTS

WARNED THAT BOTH ARE NOW BOUND BY KELLOGG-BRIAND PEACE TREATY

IN THAT PACT RUSSIA AND CHINA HAD AGREED TO RENOUNCE WAR

Washington, July 20.—(U.P.)—The United States government, taking the lead as peacemaker between Russian and China, today expected early as favorable replies to its warning that both countries are bound by the Kellogg-Briand peace treaty to renounce war.

Confidence that the Kellogg pact will be successful in this first test was expressed by officials today, even as they scanned reports that violence was breaking out along the Manchurian frontier.

Secretary of State Stimson, who yesterday announced dispatch of the warnings to both nations, made arrangements to return today from President Hoover's Rapidan, Va., weekend camp, presumably to receive replies to his communication.

Chinese Minister C. C. Wu will communicate his nation's reaction, and Russia's attitude may be conveyed through French Ambassador Claudel.

Stimson communicated with the soviet government through Foreign Minister Briand, of France, co-author of the Kellogg pact because the United States has no diplomatic relations with Russia.

Paris, July 20.—(U.P.)—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, one of Europe's foremost apostles of world peace, has telegraphed the cabinets at Moscow and Nanking, reminding them Russia and China were signatories to the Kellogg anti-war pact and asking they settle their dispute over the Chinese Eastern railway by peaceful methods.

Beside conferring personally with ambassadors of the quarrelling republics the French minister, one of the prime figures in the organizing of the League of Nations, urged the governments directly to do everything within their power to effect an amicable settlement of their dispute for the sake of peace in the far east and of world tranquility.

Thus, with Briand and United States Secretary of State Stimson working in the interests of an agreement between Russia and China, the situation was regarded as the acid test of the Kellogg pact, for the success of which both France and the United States worked for months.

The French newspapers were emphatic today that peace would be maintained in the far east because of the direct moves by France and the United States.

By RANDALL GOULD (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Shanghai, July 20.—On the heels of the first definite move by the United States and other world powers to effect a peaceful settlement between Russia and China the Nanking government today took steps to dissipate the fear in many quarters that seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway would result in similar action against other foreign interests in China.

The Kuo Min News agency reported from Nanking that Chian Kai-Shek head of the Chinese government, has issued a statement explaining that the seizure of the road in Manchuria was merely an emergency measure and that the object of the government in the future in regard to the abolition of "unequal treaties" would be realized through proper and peaceful procedure.

Meanwhile, the Chinese government will not make an immediate reply to the Russian note breaking off all trade and diplomatic relations with China, but will issue a manifesto to the world stating the position of the Nanking government in the struggle for control of the Chinese Eastern railway and explaining the events which led up to its seizure by the Nanking government.

The Kuo Min News agency alleged documents had been found in the soviet consulate during the raid at Harbin containing secret instructions from the Third Communist Internationale advocating a policy of assassination and urging the consulate to endeavor to engineer a split between China and the province of Manchuria.

Both Russia and China reacted favorably today to the reminder that they were adherents to the Kellogg anti-aggressive war pact, and no fighting was reported along the Manchurian border as a result of China's seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway.

Chinese Minister Wu gave assurance China did not wish to take the aggressive, and the reminder transmitted to soviet Russia by Foreign Minister Briand of France, caused enthusiasm in Moscow.

Skunk Family

A civet cat is more correctly called the little striped skunk. It is smaller than the genuine skunk. The end hair is short, thick and dark. The top hair is silky and black with white stripes or patches. There is also a Chinese civet, belonging to the civet family. Its fur is heavy and quite silky, but the color varies and is spotted.

Water in Oceans

No exact estimate of the volume of water in the oceans can be made because many areas have not been surveyed. From existing records the volume is computed at 324,000,000 cubic statute miles, or 14 times the bulk of all land in the world above sea level.

SINGING FIREMAN
HERE FOR PROGRAM

Howard Melaney to be Feature Artist at Banquet Honoring Airmen Tonight

Howard Melaney, the singing fireman of the Northern Pacific whose voice skyrocketed him to fame, in demand throughout the United States and Canada came to Brainerd at noon today to sing this evening at the banquet to be tendered airmen here in connection with the Brainerd Air Meet.

Mr. Melaney will sing four songs at the banquet in the Ransford hotel. He desired to be excused from singing at the airport because of a touch of hay fever, he said.

Three years ago North America heard of Mr. Melaney for the first time in the professional field. In those three years he has gained popularity through his singing from 87 radio stations in the United States and Canada.

Mr. Melaney's schedule is a busy one. During the next two weeks he will appear in radio programs in New York, Chicago, Buffalo, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Washington and Cincinnati. The following week he will travel to Toronto and Montreal, and from there will leave for the Black Hills to visit his parents for a brief rest. He hopes to secure relief from the hay fever while in the Black Hills.

BRAINERD
25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

July 20, 1904

One of the most pleasant affairs in social circles for some time was the reception tendered Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. James J. Nolan at Elks hall last night by the members of the A. O. U. and the ladies auxiliary, the affair being an after-nuptial event. Both couples were married recently in the city. A program was given first followed by a banquet, following which Graham's orchestra played. Each couple was presented with a beautiful Havard china tea set.

J. C. Hessel who has been on a trip to his native land, Germany, will return to Brainerd on Saturday or Sunday. Word has been received from New York telling of his safe arrival after a pleasant voyage.

Quite a crowd of Indians were in the city today with blueberries.

President G. D. LaBar of the First National bank and Postmaster N. H. Ingersoll left this afternoon for Smiley on business.

Mrs. Corse, mother of E. S. Houghton, returned to her home in Verndale this afternoon.

County Attorney Crane returned today from LaCrosse, Wis., where he has been on business.

Andrew Nelson, who for the past year or two has been conducting a shooting gallery on Laurel street, has returned from Denmark. He got ready to sail for America about the time the ill fated Norge was leaving his port, but a little incident prevented him from doing so although he had made arrangements for his passage. He did not leave until a week later, thus probably being spared the doom of a watery grave.

Cleaners Who Clean

Good Paint, Painter,
Assure Satisfaction

Springtime is house painting time just the same as it is moving time, June bride time, flower garden time.

In the process of freshening up the house and making it springlike as the garden, it is always well to heed the painter's plea for a two-coat job.

The painter says, "It is next to impossible to get the proper kind of a job with less than two coats, in repainting. The outside of a house is bound to become discolored with dirt, and one coat will not completely hide such a surface. Moreover, a two-coat job will last more than twice as long as a one-coat job and therefore is more economical."

It has also been proved time and again that using only the best paint pays. No matter what kind of material is put on, the labor charge for applying it is the same. The cost of application represents from two-thirds to three-quarters of the cost of the whole job, in the majority of cases. If the job wears, bills for painting will not come around again for three or four years. If it doesn't, the bills will be frequent. When paint goes wrong, you have not only lost the paint cost, but what it cost to put it on.

Colored Tile Useful

Inside House or Out

In considering various features for the outside of the house, such as floors, steps, pergolas, seats, gate entries, and walks, as well as interior walls, floors, etc., it is well to consider the versatility and durability of tile. One great factor of beauty is simplicity, and because tile possesses brilliancy of coloring it permits a simple and artistic furniture grouping. For outside as well as inside service these distinctive tiles, fashioned of clay and burned by an intense heat to make them lasting and fireproof, are a material unfading and practical.

Dowling's First Screen Venture Brings Acclaim

Eddie Dowling, "Broadway's Favorite Son," who is credited by his friends with never having been associated with a "flop" production on the stage, seems to have carried this personal tradition to the silver-sheet, for his first all talking venture at the People's theatre, Crosby, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, July 21, 22, 23.

The plot has to do with a small-time minstrel man who meets a little girl in a Southern town and falls in love with her. He loses his job through a misunderstanding, and goes to New York, penniless, to hunt for work. After many heart-breaks he finds a job, returns to the Southern town with his minstrel troupe again, and one day sees the girl he had deserted in the audience. He stops in the middle of the song and pleads for the girl's love while the audience thinks it is part of the act. The ending is a happy one.

Centers for External Parasites in Old Lots

While in continuous use, old hog lots and houses may become centers for external parasites such as lice and mange mites and more death-dealing microscopic organisms, those that cause pig diseases such as scurvy, scours, infectious nasal catarrh, bronchitis, infectious edema, swine pest, undesirable sequelae to wound infections, eczema, necrobacillosis of the skin, nose, stomach, and intestines, and various types of pneumonia. Besides all these troubles, there are the ever-present round worm eggs.

Sauerkraut Traced to ### Asiatic Wild Tribes

Sauerkraut, once an alien in this country, has been completely naturalized and adopted by the nation, as evidenced by the fact that the figures show that during the last year this nation made and consumed 18,000,000 gallons of sauerkraut. This represents a valuation of $3,500,000. It is no longer looked upon as a dietary of a foreign land. While the Germans are given the credit of originating sauerkraut, the charge is not well founded. There is evidence that it has been made in Holland and in Alsace from early times. One writer traces it to Asia, showing how the Tartars first passed on a sauerkraut recipe to the Slavic peoples of eastern Europe, who in their turn gave it to the ancient Germans. From Germany, it is conceded, the delicacy was brought here by immigrants, who as they increased in numbers spread its popularity as a food.

Anaconda Largest and ### Most Vicious of Boas

The largest snake in modern times is the anaconda, an aquatic boa, living in the swamps and rivers of the dense forest of South America. It is of a general olive-brown color, with two alternating rows of large oval black spots down its back. It is white with black spots underneath. The anaconda lives in the water, but often climbs into the trees. It feeds on birds and mammals and does most of its hunting at night. Its method is to lie submerged under the water with just its head exposed, watching for prey, or to establish itself in the branches of some tree over water, or the trunk of game. As it belongs to the boa family, it coils around its victim, crushing it to a pulp before devouring it. It is the most ill-tempered of large boas.

Lightning Freak

One of the strangest of the many fantastic tricks lightning flashes play is the "fulgurite," which is sometimes found on the sands of a beach. It is a tube of a glassy substance, projecting above the ground like a stump of a bush. Beneath the sand it is often several feet long with many branches and twists, much like a root. It is caused by a direct stroke of lightning, the tremendous heat of which fuses the wet sand into a hollow glass tube. Another odd prank of lightning was the bolt which tore the clothes from a man's back without killing him. His perspiration apparently had been instantly transformed into steam by the mighty electric current. The minuteature explosion flew off his clothing.

Explaining Seasons' Names

There is some doubt as to how the names of the seasons originated. Spring is from the Anglo-Saxon "spring," meaning "a source of water or a springing, a rising or leaping," probably in reference to the coming out of young shoots at this time of the year. Summer is from the Sanskrit "sama," meaning "year." Autumn is from the Latin "autumnus"—perhaps connected with "augere," past participle "auctus," meaning "increase," autumn being the season of produce. Winter is from the Gothic "wintris"; probably originally it meant the "snowy time."

Hot Springs National Park

In 1832 the Hot Springs and four sections of land surrounding them were set aside by act of congress, thus making the first national park reservation. In 1921 the name was changed from Hot Springs reservation to "Hot Springs National park." It contains 924 acres and includes Hot Springs mountain, North mountain, West mountain, Sugar Loaf mountain and Whittington Lake park. The springs are grouped about the base of Hot Springs mountain, and their aggregate flow is 851,308 gallons a day.

Music in the Ant Hill

Perhaps it requires a stretch of the imagination to picture an ant playing the violin. Yet certain varieties of the tiny creatures come close to doing that very thing. Nor do they have to manufacture the music-producing instrument. Nature has provided them with a finely-edged lute fastened to the abdomen and a plectrum, or sounding board, so conveniently placed that by rasping the surface the ants can produce exceedingly delicate and high-pitched musical notes.

The Fall of Man

The sermon had been about the Fall of Man. Two farmers met at the end of the service.

"Weel, Dauid," asked Tammas, "and what did ye think of the sermon?"

"Oh" Dauid replied, "the sermon was a'richt, but I was just thinkin' what a difference it wad hae made to the history o' the world if I'd been in Adam's place. Ye see, I dinna gie a hang for apples."—Birmingham (England) Weekly Post.

Honor Is Delaware's

Delaware was the first or the 13 original states to ratify the Constitution, Rhode Island being the last.

St. Louis, the ohme of the Blues, produced one of the most novel "hot" combinations that the music business has ever known, the Mound City Blue Blowers. Four warm and determined young fellows who have been producing hot, weird dance music on the radio, on records, on the Vitaphone, and on the stage for over four years. One plays a guitar, one works wonders with a banjo, the singer plays a tin can and a comb and the "rhythm boy" drums on the top of a suitcase with two whiskbrooms while his heels beat a tattoo on its sides. Quaint, distinctive, unique rhythm dance music—hotter than Grand Avenue in the middle of the summer, hotter than the Chicago fire, these four fellows are again streaking through the business leaving a blazing vivid trail of fireworks.

The four boys, William McKenzie, Frank Billings, Jack Elam, and Carl Kress, appeared first for the Majestic Theatre of the Air on June 23, their first appearance over a network of stations. Wendell Hall, always on the lookout for novelties, signed them for four more appearances on the Majestic Summer Roof Garden, July 7, 14, 21, and 28. The international Majestic network over Columbia and American Systems now includes 47 stations, one in Montreal and one in Toronto.

Cupid a Winner Against Odds

By DUFORD JENNE

MR. DEARBORN looked soberly at the handsome, aristocratic face across his desk. "My boy, this is pretty serious news. It will come close to breaking Dot's heart. Since your engagement it she has been happier than I have ever known her to be before. You see, she has no memory of her mother, so she has confided in me, and I know how she feels. And now, you want to break the engagement," he added slowly.

"I know, Mr. Dearborn," the young man said a bit impatiently, "how you feel, and I am sorry; but, surely, you would not want to have me go on with this. Dorothy is a lovely girl, and—and—I thought I was in love with her, but I find out I'm not."

Dearborn nodded. "No, you are right, Bradford—I suppose. Only I wish—well, never mind, I merely want to save her as much suffering as I can." He sat in thought a moment. Then he turned. "I am going to ask one thing—give her a week of grace. Do not say anything to her for that time, will you?"

Bradford's carefully groomed eyebrows lifted. "Certainly, I'll agree to that."

The next day, McMurray, manager of a division of Dearborn's business, read a letter from his chief in the northern state, whistled, and read it again. Then he called in his secretary.

"Miss Blaine, you have been with me for twenty-five years, but here's the toughest assignment I ever gave you," he said smiling, and he went on to explain that she was to choose for him the young man on the staff of the division who could be called handsome, cultured and the possessor of a high character and pleasant disposition. He told her just enough to aid her, and she went out on her errand.

The Scotchman leaned back and read the letter again. "The old man is playing a wild scheme, it seems to me, but I suppose things look so bad to him that he is willing to try it."

The next afternoon, Dearborn looked up from the card his secretary had brought him, and started a bit. In front of him stood six solid feet of manhood. What won Dearborn was not the graceful evident strength of the man, nor the thick tawny hair, but the dark eyes; they were cheery, good-natured, and gave ample proof of an inner kindness.

After the usual introductory words, Dearborn explained that he was in need of an assistant and that he had asked McMurray to send him a candidate. And he added, "if you like the work, Mr. Lane, you will have a permanent staff position."

After closing hours, Dearborn drove Lane home. On the way they chatted, Dearborn, skilled in handling men, drawing him out; and the boy won him.

As they stood in the hall of his home, Dearborn called to Dorothy.

Down the stairs she came, a slim figure in a white dress. She paused suddenly. She saw the tall young man beside her father.

That night, Dearborn stood at his bedroom window looking out into the moon-washed gardens where he had once walked with someone he loved.

"To save that happy heart is worth any price," he vowed to himself.

The hours in the executive offices were short, and Lane tended strictly to business. Then he vanished, and Dearborn, going home, found that Dorothy had vanished, too. Then they would come in, and there was gay and happy talk of golf and tennis, swimming and auto trips.

Friday, the crisis came. First, Lane opened his heart, and with direct speech, as was his way, told Dearborn that he had come to love Dorothy, but that she was pledged to another.

Dearborn's old heart skipped a beat. He put one hand on the other's shoulder. "My boy, I know enough of men to know what you are. Dot is yours, if you want her!"

Lane's sheer happiness at the words left Dearborn a bit awed. He hurried home. The house was silent, but one of the maids told him Dot was

FAMILIAR PAIR OF RIVALS VIE FOR GOLF TITLE

Denver, Colo., July 20.—(UP)—The Third Annual Woman's Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament finals hold the stage today with a familiar pair of rivals vying for the title—Miss Marian Turpie of New Orleans, thrice the medalist and Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, the champion.

With the sensational young golfer and the resourceful queen of the Trans-Mississippi playing in top form, today's match is looked upon as more than the mere formality of closing up a championship tournament.

Close observers expect that golf history will be written on the Denver country club course today as the valiant New Orleans girl again meets the one woman she has never been able to beat for the Trans-Mississippi championship.

MARANVILLE TO BECOME PLAYER-MANAGER OF BRAVES

Boston, July 20.—(UP)—Walter J. "Rabbit" Maranville, veteran shortstop, will become player-manager of the Boston Braves tomorrow, it was announced today.

Appointment of Maranville brings to an end the experiment in which Judge Emil Fuchs attempted to serve as his own manager. It became known several months ago that Fuchs was dissatisfied with his own work as player-manager.

Maranville once piloted the Chicago Cubs. Afterwards he went to the St. Louis Cardinals, then to Rochester, back to the Cardinals, and then came to the Braves.

DEFEATS GERMANY 3 MATCHES TO NONE IN DOUBLES EVENTS

JOHN VAN RYN AND WILMER ALLISON DEFEAT DR. HANS MOLDENAUER AND DR. PRENN

U. S. TO MEET FRANCE IN CHALLENGE ROUND AT AUTEUIL, JULY 26, 27 AND 28

Rot Weiss Tennis Club, Berlin, July 20.—(UP)—The United States won the Davis Cup Interzone final from Germany, three matches to none by winning the doubles today.

The United States will meet France in the challenge round at Auteuil July 26, 27 and 28.

John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, young Americans, defeated the German doubles team of Dr. Hans Moldenauer and Dr. Daniel Prenn 9-11, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

William T. Hunter and Francis T. Hunter, American veterans, scored the other two victories in the opening singles matches yesterday. Two remaining singles matches will be played tomorrow, but will have no effect on the outcome.

The German team which eliminated Great Britain, three matches to two in the European zone final, put up a strong battle against the superior American forces, but could win only two sets in the first three matches.

Dr. Prenn won the first set from Hunter in yesterday's singles and the German doubles team won the first set from Van Ryn and Allison today.

In winning the first set of the doubles, the Germans outdid themselves, especially Moldenauer who aroused cries of admiration from the crowd by his dazzling placements.

Although Van Ryn had trouble with his control in the first set, he rallied in the three succeeding sets to dominate the match. Allison scored many amazing shots but did not play so consistently brilliantly as his black-haired partner.

Carnegie Tech Boasts Advisory Grid Coach

Carnegie Tech is one of the few major college football teams of the country that possess an advisory coach besides an active one. Judge Walter P. Steffen, the advisory coach at the Skibos camp, is one of the most popular and unusual figures of the gridiron world.

The Judge, a former star with the University of Chicago in 1908, making a berth on Walter Camp's All-American team that year, sits on a Chicago bench throughout the week, but always heads for the scene of Tech's game on Friday evenings. He spends all of his thirty-day vacation in the month of September seeing his charges get off to a good start.

Umpire Joe Becker Has Ready Reply for Query

Joe Becker did not start the season with the Coast league this year, but has just caught on with the International. During his period of "inactivity," however, since he naturally is regarded as an authority, he kept "in condition," giving decisions when called upon by his friends in Joplin.

Recently he was questioned concerning giving credit for runs batted in.

"Suppose," he was asked, "the bases are full and the batter is struck on the head by a pitched ball, forcing in a run. Should he be given credit for a run batted in?"

Joe thought for quite a while. "Well," he said finally, "that would come under the heading of runs batted in."

Two Nebraska football stars, Edward ("Blue") Howell of Omaha and Dan McMullen of Belleville, Kan., announce they probably will play professional football next fall with the New York Giants. They said they had the contracts and probably would sign them.

Howell, as a backfield man, gained mention on a number of honorary teams the past season, while McMullen, who also was placed on several "all" teams, is a guard. They will report next September, they said.

Keeping Up Name

Pitching Skill Grows With Age

GRANTING that figures do not speak untruthfully, it is safe to state right out loud in meeting that big league pitching of a kind that counts is essentially an old man's job. An old man in a baseball sense is anybody beyond the ordinarily youthful mark of thirty years.

A glance at the final report on the major circuit hurling performances of last season is proof of the correctness of the above contention. In the National league you find practically every veteran dinger of any account up among the first twenty-five men, reckoned on a games won and lost basis. In the American league the proportion is about the same. The answer is that, while a pitcher may decline physically after thirty, he adds to his effectiveness by employing the cunning that years of experience pile up in his mind.

The American league boasts of two men who stand out above the other old-timers because there is no appreciable let down in their skill after long years of service. One is Urban Faber of the White Sox, who, among other things, is a "splitball" pitcher. The other is Jack Quinn of the Athletics. He, too, employs a "splitter." The strange feature of this is that a "splitter" always was looked upon as being the most wearing on an arm.

Faber, familiarly known as "Red," reached his fortieth birthday last September and made his first appearance in the big show as a Pirate in 1910. Last season, for a team that was in the second division most of the time, he accomplished 13 victories, against 7 defeats. Quinn, now forty-three years young and who was a Yankee way back in 1909 when they called them the Highlanders, appeared in 31 games for the Athletics and won 18, while losing 7. Quinn pitched 212 innings, while Faber worked 200, but the former had considerable of an advantage in laboring for a contender.

That Grover Cleveland Alexander is the National league's shining example of longevity requires no mention. Old Pete, who for years has defied the soundness of training theories, becomes forty-two next February, but even with this burden on his shoulders he turned in 16 victories while losing 9 for the Cards last season.

Both Burleigh Grimes of the Pirates and Dazzy Vance, the illustrious Robin, boast having gone past their thirty-fifth milestone. Last season with the Pirates, 16 seasons after his debut in the majors, Grimes won 25 and lost 14. Vance, who had his initial major trial back in 1914 with Pittsburgh, copped 16 and lost 14.

Reviving Base Stealing

THE NEW FLEET FOOTED OUTFIELDER WITH THE CINCINNATI REDS IS DEMONSTRATING THAT FAST BASE RUNNING IS STILL VALUABLE IN WINNING BALL GAMES

By QUIN HALL
YEARS ago the boys who came up to the big leagues every Spring took a little course of training in base running and sliding into the bags. Today they still pay some attention to this department, but base pilfering is no longer classed as an art.

For this very reason, Evar Swanson, the outfielder secured from the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast League by the Cincinnati Reds last Winter, may prove quite a novelty before the close of the present season. He may be old fashioned, but he still has an idea that a pair of fast legs, properly applied, can help win ball games.

He has already built up a reputation as the fastest man in the league and his ability to steal bases has already accounted for some Red victories which otherwise might have been chalked up in the loss column. Recently, in a game against the Giants, his activity during the afternoon consisted of beating out two infield hits, stealing two sacks and scampering from first to third on a sacrifice—a feat which is almost as rare as a snowy day in Africa!

Swanson's hitting is showing improvement, and no less a judge than John McGraw has said, "if he can hit, he will be a great ball player some day." And that's a compliment—especially from McGraw.

Of Swedish descent, Swanson is twenty-six, weighs 170, and is five feet ten inches tall. Born in DeKalb, Ill., he graduated from high school there and went to Lombard College at Galesburg, Ill.

Swanson is proving that base stealing pays in the big leagues. He may be the means of reviving this almost lost art to the national pastime.

Do you remember how Ty Cobb used to pilfer the corners?

Gives Facts on First and Second Mortgages

A real estate mortgage is a lien against real property. A first mortgage is a prior lien and seldom exceeds 50 per cent of the value of the real estate pledged as security.

A second mortgage is the same as a first mortgage in kind, but is "second" or subordinate to the latter. The security for its lien is less stable than a first mortgage, and it is therefore more expensive to place a second mortgage.

Like rent, however, it is a necessary evil. If the degree of fluctuation of the value of a property is small, mortgages can be placed to cover such a large proportion of the real value that the owner's equity will be small indeed.

The equity in any property is that part of its value over and above all encumbrances upon it. The smaller the mortgagor's equity, the less each succeeding mortgagee's (lender's) security becomes in case third or fourth mortgages are placed.

Foreclosure proceedings are resorted to in event of default in interest or principal by the borrower or mortgagor, in which case the property is offered at public auction.

Amortization is usually insisted upon by holders of lesser liens than a first mortgage, and consists in reducing the principal of such liens by means of installments. The security for a subordinate mortgage is therefore least at its placing, but increases in proportion to the progress of amortization.

SUPREME COURT ALLOWS CLAIM

Reverses Verdict of Judge Graham
Torrance in Case of Hall vs. Bay
Lake Fruit Growers

$3,950 CLAIM VALID

Higher Court Rules That Transaction
Was Not Sale of Stock
But a Loan

The Minnesota Supreme Court yesterday handed down a decision reversing the verdict of Judge Graham Torrance, Bemidji, and allowed the claim of L. P. Hall, Bay Lake in the amount of $3,950 in the matter of Hall vs. the Bay Lake Fruit Growers Association.

The claim had previously been declared invalid by Judge Torrance in district court here, the appeal to the higher court being made by Attorney Per M. Larson working in conjunction with the firm of Wieland and Sullivan attorneys for Hall.

The claim which arose from two transactions whereby Hall loaned the Bay Lake Fruit Growers Association the sums of $2,250 and $500 was opposed in district court here and in supreme court by Attorney Donald J. Ryan, receiver for the insolvent company on the grounds that the money received did not constitute a loan but a purchase of stock.

In the transaction which resulted in the court action Hall gave a loan to the Association for which he received as security stock in the company. Later the association gave notes to Mr. Hall on the return of stock.

Previously to the appeal to the supreme court the receiver brought action for a 100 per cent assessment against Hall for the stock he claimed was his. Judge Bert Fessler, Duluth, ruled in favor of Hall, the decision being supported in the verdict handed down by the supreme court. Fessler ruled that 255 of Hall's shares had been cancelled on the books of the corporation on December 27, 1921. He further ruled that whereas Mr. Hall had the sum of $3,452.50 due him for which he had filed a claim that he was to pay his ratable proportion in assessment on his own claim to be ascertained by computing the proportion of the claim and expenses which his 255 shares of stock bears to the entire stock outstanding of January 25, 1918.

On Rearing Children from CRIB to COLLEGE

Compiled by the Editors of "CHILDREN,
The Magazine for PARENTS"

Parents should face the fact that a large percentage of pupils today attending American high schools are not by nature suited to the work of colleges. This unsuitability may be based on various kinds of ineptitude, such as ill health, or nervous instability; but the kind of ineptitude which stands out most clearly in studies of college students is based on incapacity for abstract thinking. The good liberal arts college is so organized as to require a superior order of ability to work with symbolic relations.

Remember that the child's interest and curiosity in sex is natural, normal and healthy; that it is only by making such queries that the child can eventually understand his world. He has to make these queries about many things—sex is only one—and if you have considered a child's questions, or kept track of them over any considerable period of time, you have found that only a small group of them have to do with sex.

Daily sun baths are excellent tonics for children but they should be given with discrimination. The Spartans put their children out in the sun and air to harden them for a strenuous life. We use sunlight on the unprotected skin as a preventive of anemia and rickets; to increase resistance against disease; to make better muscle tone; and to give the added stimulus, which, as the appetite grows and the right foods are given for a child to choose from, will combat malnutrition.

Almost all babies are overdressed. Whether it be indoors in winter or outdoors in summer, they are swaddled in enveloping blankets and wrapped in layers of woolen garments until it is no wonder that they eventually land in the doctor's office with one complaint or another.

The modern traidside museum has seized upon a great opportunity for the education of youth. The exhibits of the wayside, the views across the country, the plants of swamp and upland, the teeming animal life of streams and ponds, all constitute a real museum—a museum without confining walls, without an enclosing roof, and filled with specimens not dead but living, a changing program from hour to hour, day to day, and season to season.

To those accustomed to the operation of electrical washing machines the present types of machine seem marvels of speed and simplicity of operation. But the sure, certain ease of the practiced operator will not come to the beginner overnight. No matter how completely the machine has been demonstrated, no matter how carefully the beginner has read her directions, some little period of adjustment will be necessary while she learns to change her routine from hand methods to machine practice. A little patience and practice on the part of the new operator will soon bring her to the point where her machine will do for her all that one manufacturers have promised.

One Per Cent Monthly Fair Carrying Charge

The financing of a home means far more than the mere matter of putting up a few hundred dollars to cover the bare equity. Among the things to be considered are: Saving the money, buying the land, planning the house, buying the material and budgeting for both the investment and the running expenses.

Building a home, or even buying a home, ought not to be considered in a slipshod manner. Few people realize that the home for the family should not be invested in the same manner as a real estate operator or speculator buys up property on the moment or on a shoe string. While the former is putting his hard-earned cash in a place where he plans to house his family for a number of years, the latter expects a quick turnover.

Oliver Wendell Holmes has said that the training of a child should start "one hundred years before he is born." While we would not carry out this extreme statement in connection with the financing of a home, it is very necessary to think of and work out far in advance the home-owning problem. It cannot be done in a hurry, and the greatest amount of deliberation should be exercised.

Some of the simple ways of getting at how much one ought to invest in a home may be worked out somewhat on the following lines: One should not invest in a home the total value of which is more than three times one's yearly income. Also, one should not plan to pay out more per month for carrying charges (which would be practically the same as rent in an apartment) than one's weekly income.

In financing, as in other matters pertaining to the home, the owner-to-be should seek the advice of an expert, whose character is established beyond question. Money and worry will be saved by so doing.

To Give Height

When additional height is desired in low rooms, wall paper with stripes of rising lines in the pattern should be used. The paper should run directly to the ceiling line, and the ceiling should be papered with a plain color close to the shade of the background of the walls. If it is not too dark, so that the change from wall to ceiling will not be so marked.

LITIGATION ENDS ON HARTLEY ESTATE

Heirs to Pay $81,223.32 to State in Inheritance Tax on Estate of $2,223,099.68

After more than seven years of litigation probate of the estate of the late Guilford G. Hartley, Duluth capitalist who died Jan. 17, 1922, was completed Thursday in probate court, Duluth, when Judge William J. Archer of probate court after a hearing signed an order determining the final inheritance tax.

Heirs of the late Mr. Hartley will pay, including previous payments, the sum of $81,223.32 to the state in inheritance taxes. This is based on a taxable estate of $2,223,099.68.

The court ruled that the estate, one of the largest ever probated here, was valued at $3,166,972.31. Of this amount $798,437.35 was deductible as expenses of probating the estate, leaving a net estate of $2,368,534.96, of which $2,223,099.68 was held taxable.

The order for final determination of the estate shows that Mrs. Carrie Hartley, widow of the late G. G. Hartley, received $759,800.48 on which a tax of $20,377.62 was due the state. Amount distributed to sons and daughters and the taxes paid by each follows: Cavour Hartley, $471,747.99, tax, $16,948.80; Guilford Hartley, $314,211.31, tax, $10,671.98; Essie Congdon, $313,959.86, tax, $10,657.88; Irma Claypool, $313,959.81, tax, $10,661.12; and Judith Lewis, $313,959.81, tax, $10,661.12.

Twelve other persons and institutions shared in the estate.

The late Mr. Hartley was at one time a resident of Brainerd, representing this district in the legislature.

'LION' SOUGHT AT DETROIT LAKES MAY BE A DOG

Detroit Lakes, Minn., July 20.—(U.P.)—Skeptical residents of Detroit Lakes today loudly proclaimed their convictions that the object of the chase in Becker county's "lion hunt" is nothing more than a large dog.

Scores of citizens scoured the woods in the western part of the county Friday in search of what was reported to be an African lion. Several persons reported seeing the animal, a farm woman reported the loss of 20 turkeys and another family said a small boy had been attacked.

Today many doubters declared the animal probably is a large dog, sheared in lion fashion with the head and shoulders left unshorn.

Giant Liner Bremen Slicing Through Water at High Rate of Speed

New York, July 20.—(U.P.)—The new giant North German Lloyd liner Bremen, making its maiden trip to New York from Germany, France and England, achieved 704 knots in the 24 hours ending at noon today, according to a radio to the line's office here.

The speed was at the rate of 27.6 knots per hour.

"We are moving with the speed of a destroyer and the smoothness of a de luxe express train," the message said. "We are slicing through the water with scarcely a ripple."

The line's office said the huge ship, which left Southampton, England, at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday, is now expected to reach quarantine outside of New York at 5 p. m. Monday, eastern daylight time.

by SAMUEL SPEWACK

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

PHILIP EDISON is host at a night-club party to his just-recently-divorced wife and Oliver Sewell, sportsman and Don Juan. Edison presumes that Sewell and the divorcee are to be married. When the party breaks up, Edison goes to Sewell's home and, while he is waiting his return, is informed Sewell has been found dead. Inspector Marx begins a police investigation. He questions Sewell's Russian valet. The elevator operator is also questioned. He did not see Sewell return. A young medical examiner, with a taste for detective work, assists Marx. Their search of the apartment reveals complete wardrobes for women in different colors. In a safe-deposit box they find a scrap of paper bearing the inscription, "Paid in Full." The following day a Major Preston, who has been a sporting associate of Sewell's, is interrogated. Then Sewell's widow visits the apartment.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

"Now, mind you," warned Marx, "this is very serious. You know what you're saying?"

"Listen," the widow loomed harshly. "I know what I'm saying. That's Preston's handwriting."

"Cordial! They were like cat and dog! They trusted each other just as far as they could see."

"I want to ask you something," Marx waved the doctor aside.

"Did you ever call your husband at his club and threaten him?"

"Yes, lots of times."

"Threaten to kill him?"

"Yes."

"Did you mean it?"

"At the time—yes. But I never had the courage. I'd go back to my medicine, and then—oh—I guess I'd just forget it. And then I'd brood some more, and—I guess I'd go back to my medicine."

"You wouldn't understand that. I couldn't kill him. But I'm glad that he's dead!"

"She looked about the room."

"They found me here. I was alone once. He threw me out. I ordered the servants down below never to let me up again."

"She laughed shortly."

"By the way," intervened the doctor, "I forgot to ask you this morning if—I trust you'll pardon this question—if you were acquainted with any of your husband's feminine friends."

"I've seen them," Mrs. Sewell's lips were now a thin straight line.

"Remember a woman in blue?"

"A woman in blue. You mean Mrs. Edison?"

"Oh! Did you know anything of her relations with your husband?"

"I could guess."

"How about other women—a woman in silver?"

"She shook her head."

"I gave up long ago keeping track of Mr. Sewell's girl friends. I did know about Mrs. Edison. I guess everyone did. She made no secret of it. She was wild about him. You know, Oliver was a ladies' man. Oh, yes. He had quite a track. You know he made his big hit with them by never scolding them openly. He would meet them at a party, and then enthrall them over them to everyone. The news would get back to the girl he was interested in, and she'd be intrigued. He used to boast he invented this method. This was the sort of thing that occupied his mind."

"Now let me get this straight," interrupted Marx. "You haven't seen your husband in some time?"

"Three months."

"And outside of yourself, you don't know anyone who'd want to kill him?"

"No," she replied. "Unless it was the Major."

"You don't like the Major, do you?" demanded Marx.

"The widow rose."

"I guess you know by this time how much I like him."

"Do you know this Major's handwriting? Have you ever seen it?"

"Yes. Often. He wrote me letters."

"Marx showed her the receipt from the safe."

"Do you recognize this handwriting?"

"I certainly do," she replied promptly. "That peculiar I—paid in full—that's the Major's. I'd swear to it!"

"Now, Mrs. Sewell," interposed the Doctor, "what were the relations between your husband and the major, cordial?"

"ought to know. I'll get up in any court and swear to it."

"He says it isn't."

"Then he's a liar!"

"You know something like this may help send him to the chair? You realize that?"

A curious smile played in her shadowed eyes.

"Yes, I realize that. And I tell you it's his handwriting."

"All right," said Marx. "Now you're not leaving town? We can get you any time we want you?"

"The doctor has my address," the widow said, rising and adjusting her dowdy black hat. She walked to the door, and stopped.

"You know," she confided, "I feel almost young again. I want to sing. I want to dance. Thank God, he's dead!"

And then a strange chuckle came from the figure in mourning as she swished into the corridor. Marx seemed dumfounded and leaned back thoughtfully.

"Think there's any chance of her having done it in a crazy minute, and then forgetting it? Why's she so anxious to pin it on the Major? And then again—why's the Major so anxious to pin it on her? That's what gets me."

Sergeant Carraway bustled into the room.

"Boss," he addressed Marx, "we've been busier than hell. Now here's the lay-out—"

"Shoot," invited Marx.

"Mrs. Edison is the woman in blue. She was living at a hotel in the Sixties. We went there. And we found out she's disappeared."

"Blown?"

"Yep. Hasn't been back since the murder. Took her clothes, checked out and beat it."

Marx shook his head.

"Go on," he urged.

"Her ex-hubby's all right. Checked up on him. He was downstairs all the time, right up to the minute the guy was found. Got the taxi-driver who took him here from the club. Time checks. He was following them, and got here. You can talk to him if you want to. I don't know what he was following them for, but his alibi is good."

"Go on," Marx commanded, non-committal.

"We got the woman in silver, the woman in red and the woman in gold. This baby sure had a swell harem. We're trailing all of 'em. Here's the names—and the dope."

Carraway read quickly.

"Woman in silver—Mrs. Stanley Rashburton—thirty-eight, society, rich, old husband, no children, loves night clubs, goes in for sports, mixed up in a couple of scandals."

"Woman in red—Countess Nina Karasova—Russian—been in this country for ten years—well kept—changes 'em once a year. Crazy about Sewell. Terrific gambler. Has swell apartment."

"Woman in gold—nineteen, came to New York three months ago—just met Sewell a couple of weeks ago—good-looking—sweet girl graduate—named Mary Pen-nell—good family."

Carraway snapped his notebook to.

"Well," asked the doctor, "what's the next step?"

"I'm going to get the D. A. to issue a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Edison."

"Ed?"

"Material witness."

"Oh, I see," the doctor mused. "You're annoyed with her disappearance."

Marx was about to retort with heavy sarcasm, when the door opened. The Russian butler appeared and bowed slightly.

"Excuse me," he said, "but there is something bothering me. I must tell you."

"Oh! Go ahead!" invited Marx.

"I was so excited when you talked to me I did not have a chance. But it is this—I have been here six months, and I have noticed that I have always made breakfast for two. But never have I seen the lady."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean every day I made breakfast for two. And I never see anyone but Mr. Sewell. At first it was strange to me, but I have learned not to bother with other people's concerns, so I paid no attention, and it was a habit."

"Wait a minute!" interrupted Marx.

"You mean that there was a woman here every morning, and you made breakfast for two."

"Yes," said the butler. "But I never see the woman—if it was a woman. And it was maybe not a woman, because other women came here, but always there was breakfast for two."

Soviet-China Clash Nearer

Since the breaking of diplomatic relations between Soviet Russia and the Chinese Nationalist Government, clashes between troops on the eastern Chinese border have been reported. Many thousands of Chinese troops, like these above, have been ordered to the Manchurian districts on the Amur River. Russia alleges that China failed within time limit to reply to the ultimatum sent in protest against seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway and the arrest of the Soviet officials. China says the reply was on time but delay was due to translation.

Tries Fastest Ocean Crossing

Although delayed by fog over the North Sea and at Southampton, England, owners of the great new German liner, "Bremen," above, expressed confidence she can break the "Mauretania" record for the ocean crossing. The "Bremen," 938 feet over all, is especially designed for speed, offering the minimum of wind resistance, due to streamline construction. She can attain 29 knots an hour when her 100,000 horsepower turbines are extended, but it is not likely this will be tried while the engines are new.
